DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to Applicant's Amendment, filed on September 11, 2006 have been considered but are deemed moot in view of new ground of rejections below.

2. Claims 1, 4-11 and 13-15 are amended. Claims 1-15 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3, 5-6, 8-12 and 14-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Linsay (U.S. Patent No. 6,694,338).

With respect to claim 1, Linsay teaches defining a source element associated with data (i.e., source document in fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21), the data stored in a first location of a structured environment and mapped to the source to enable retrieval thereof, wherein the source element comprises includes a source business object, a source business component, and a first source field all pertaining to a first user interface (fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); defining a destination element, wherein the destination element comprises a destination business object, a destination business component, and a first destination field all pertaining to a second user interface (target document, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); and mapping the source element to the destination element (fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); wherein the mapping comprises mapping the first source field to the first destination field and executing the mapping provides an unchanged image of data mapped to the first source field to the first destination field for display on the second user interface, (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56) maintains the state of the data and the mapping of the data to the first source field and maintains the data only in the first location of the structured environment (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 2, Linsay teaches the source business object and the destination business object comprise different business objects (fig. 6, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 3, Linsay teaches the source business component comprises an active business component (fig. 6, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 5, Linsay teaches incorporating data location information from the first source field into the first destination field (fig. 6, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 6, Linsay teaches defining a source element associated with data (i.e., source document in fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21), the data stored in a first location of a structured environment and mapped to the source to enable retrieval thereof, wherein the source element comprises includes a source business object, a source business component, and a first source field all pertaining to a first user interface (fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); defining a destination element, wherein the destination element comprises a destination business object, a destination business component, and a first destination field all pertaining to a second user interface (target document, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); and mapping the source element to the destination element (fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col.

3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); wherein the mapping comprises mapping the first source field to the first destination field and executing the mapping provides an unchanged image of data mapped to the first source field to the first destination field for display on the second user interface, (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56) maintains the state of the data and the mapping of the data to the first source field and maintains the data only in the first location of the structured environment (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 8, Linsay teaches incorporating data location information associated with the first source field into the first destination field (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 9, Linsay teaches generation of a user interface display, the user interface display including a plurality of data fields corresponding to the destination business object, the destination business component, and the first destination field, the plurality of data fields configured to receive a user input to specify the destination (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 10, Linsay teaches mapping the data to the destination business object, wherein the destination business object comprises the source business object (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 11, Linsay teaches defining a source element associated with data (i.e., source document in fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21), the data stored in a first location of a structured environment and mapped to the source to enable retrieval thereof, wherein the source element comprises includes a source business object, a source business component, and a first source field all pertaining to a first user interface (fig. 2, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); defining a destination element, wherein the destination element comprises a destination business object, a destination business component, and a first destination field all pertaining to a second user interface (target document, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); and mapping the source element to the destination element (fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56); wherein the mapping comprises mapping the first source field to the first destination field and executing the mapping provides an unchanged image of data mapped to the first source field to the first destination field for display on the second user interface, (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56) maintains the state of the data and the mapping of the data to the first source field and maintains the data only in the first location of the structured environment (fig. 2, fig. 3, fig. 6, col. 2, lines 56-67 to col. 3, lines 1-21, col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 12, Linsay teaches the database comprises a relational database management system database (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 14, Linsay teaches the user interface display includes a plurality of form applets configured to enable a user to input source and destination information (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

With respect to claim 15, Linsay teaches the data field corresponding to the first source field may be populated with a field identifier defined in the source business component or a free-text calculated expression (col. 5, lines 23-67 to col. 6, lines 1-56).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 4, 7 and 13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
